VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

to help build a local organic farm and food system in New York. NOFA-NY Wants You!

Nonprofit organizations run on volunteer energy. There are dozens of specific tasks that need doing to build the local organic farm and food system. You can help and you can help by volunteering your time to do what you think needs doing most in your area. Please fill out the form below and call us. All staff and board member phone numbers are listed on the first inside page of our newsletter.

I am interested in volunteering to help NOFA-NY.

Join NOFA-NY to keep abreast of important issues and connected with our members.

- Coordinate a regional/local educational event near me this year.
- Host a regional/local educational this year.
- Serve on one of NOFA-NY's board committees. We have a new advisory committee on organic gardening. We have a consumer advisory committee that is just forming. We need help with these and other committees.
- Help collect information in your area about local food availability for our Food Guide.
- Be a local contact in my county for people who want to purchase local organic foods.

- Help with local, regional or statewide fund raising for NOFA-NY.
- Get together with other members in my area to see what we can do as a group.
- Help recruit new members for NOFA-NY.
- Join a regional chapter in my area (Long Island, Susquenango, Central NY-Syracuse).
- Get involved as an organic advocate in the county advisory groups who advise Cooperative Extension, the Soil & Water Conservation District, the Natural Resource Conservation Service.
- Write articles for the newsletter, give us ideas for stories or distribute our newsletter in your local area.
- Help get the word out on important opportunities to influence federal or state decisions about food and farming.
- Sit with displays at events and answer questions about organic food and farming,
- Become part of our Speaker's Bureau, making presentations about topics you are familiar with locally and throughout the state.
- Help in other ways....We have more ideas and I'm sure you do, too. Please call.

Comments (a good place to list what you think needs doing and what or how you would like to volunteer to get it done).
