

Internship Title: Organic Farming Outreach and Education Intern

Organization: Northeast Organic Farming Association of New York (NOFA-NY)

Organization Description: Founded in 1983, NOFA-NY is a statewide organization leading a growing movement of farmers, consumers, gardeners, and businesses committed to promoting sustainable, local, organic food and farming that's good for people and planet.

We provide education, assistance, and support to regionally-based, sustainable farmers to help them thrive; educate consumers about the value in buying local, organic products; help consumers connect with regionally-based farmers; work to make local, organic food available to all people; and advocate policies that support a sustainable food and farm system.

Our organization promotes the stewardship of the land and the lives that inhabit it. Stewardship encompasses the long-term viability of our natural resource base; the health of consumers; the working conditions of farmers, their families and workers; the needs of communities; and the welfare of farm animals. Please see our website for more information: www.nofany.org.

Overview of Outreach and Educational Support

1. Support NOFA-NY's Educational Programming by coordinating promotion and marketing for outreach activities.
2. Support organization through research of marketing opportunities across NYS.
3. Conduct directed market research into relevant areas of policy affecting organic and sustainable producers.
4. Compile basic organic statistics state wide to use when promoting organic and for project justification for grant writing.

Internship Information: This is an unpaid internship. The duration of the internship is a negotiable. The time requirement per week is between 16 and 24 hours. If you need to receive educational credit for this internship, please let us know in your application.

Office Location: 1423 Hathaway Drive, Farmington, NY 14425

Application/Contact: Please email a cover letter, resume, and 3 references to HR@nofany.org. To submit a hardcopy of application materials, please send to:

Human Resources
NOFA-NY
1423 Hathaway Drive
Farmington, NY 14425